THOMAS AND PERCY'S SPOOKY NIGHT

Late one afternoon, Thomas snuck up behind his best friend, Percy.

"Boo!" Thomas yelled.

Percy almost jumped off the tracks.

"Thomas, you scared me!"
Percy said.

"Why are you so jumpy
today, Percy?" Thomas asked.

"The bulb for the lighthouse is out," said Percy. "I have to deliver a new one—at night."

"Don't worry, Percy," Thomas said. "I'll go with
you. It won't be as spooky
if we're together."

Their friend Sandy gave them disguises so they would feel brave. She gave them smokestacks and showed them how to use smoke signals. She also gave them a secret package for emergencies.

It started getting dark. Thomas and Percy heard something coming along the track. They quickly hid behind some trees.

But it was only their friend Nia on her way home to the Sheds.

Thomas and Percy took off their disguises and chugged along the dark track.

Percy jumped. "What was that?"

Thomas looked around.
They were passing a farm that
had a tall barn with a squeaky old weathervane on top.

Thomas continued down the track, but a bale of hay blocked the way. He used the special smokestack Sandy gave him to signal to Percy to turn around.

Thomas found another track that led them to the deep, dark forest.

They couldn't see anything except the track disappearing into the spooky woods.

Thomas tried to turn on his light, but it didn't work. It was very dark. Thomas was scared.

"Maybe we should use Sandy's emergency package," Percy suggested.

"No," Thomas said. "We can be brave. Let's go!"

Just then, a light appeared above them. Thomas and Percy looked up.

It was the moon! Thomas and Percy could see everything along the track—including the lighthouse!

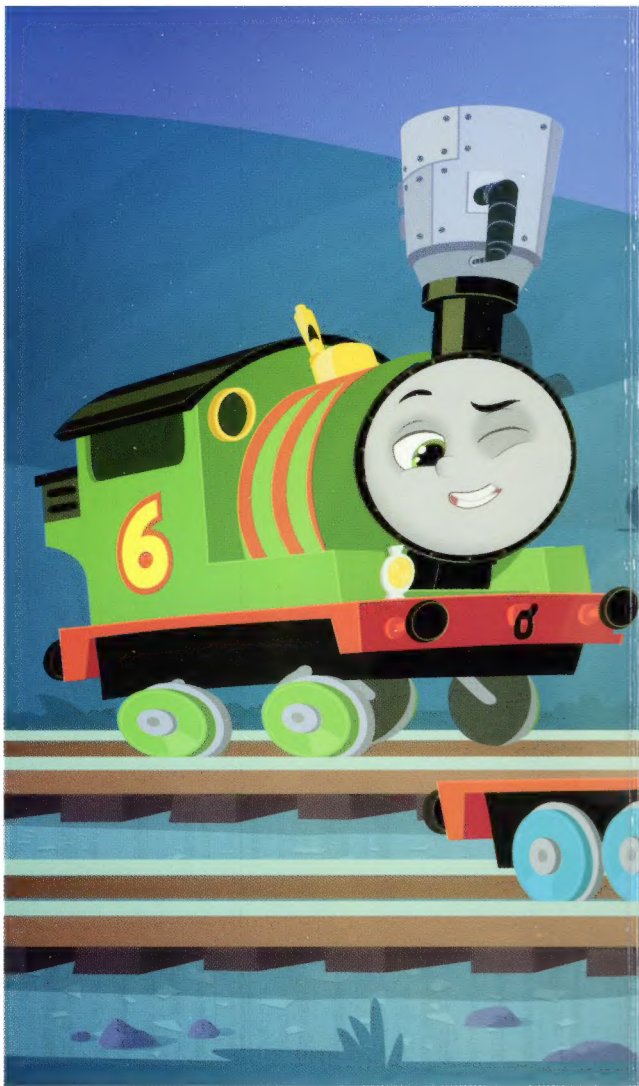

Thomas and Percy delivered the new bulb. It lit up the whole area.

"I wonder what was in Sandy's emergency package," Percy said.

Percy unwrapped the package. They couldn't believe their eyes. It was a big lamp!

The two best friends laughed all the way back to the Sheds.

It was a not-so-spooky night after all.
